Feigenholtz's Resolution Recognizes Lakeview Couple as they Commemorate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Lakeview column writer happily married since April 23rd, 1966.

Chicago, Ill. – In recognition of spending a half-century together, State Representative Sara Feigenholtz (D-Chicago) sponsored a resolution expressing congratulations to Ann Gerber and Bernard Kaplan as they celebrate 50 years of marriage.

“Ann and Bernard’s story is that of the quintessential Chicago couple. They met at the Edgewater Beach Cabana Club,” beamed Feigenholtz. “They have both, individually and collectively, contributed to our community.”

Bernard is the oldest living Harvard Business School graduate in Chicago, and served as the head of a candy company while also working in real estate. Ann worked as a journalist for 65 years, and recently retired from her post as a gossip columnist – she was the city’s longest continual columnist.

Ann and Bernard live in east Lakeview and travel extensively, living life to the fullest.
